

WoodWarming

- it's Wonderfuel!

10am - 4pm Friday 28 & Saturday 29 November
Newport Football Club, St George's Way, Newport

Getting hot under the collar about energy?

Many people are now switching to an economical, climate-friendly, local fuel: wood. Wood has kept people warm throughout human history - and it is still here today. Now we can burn it efficiently, easily and cleanly using modern boilers and stoves, so you can afford to be warm and still do your bit to tackle climate change. Woodfuel heating systems can also help to meet increasingly stringent building regulations.

A biomass boiler can be the heart of your home or business

Fuel from well-managed local woods and plantations is a reliable and completely renewable resource. With soaring gas and electricity prices, wood can help control energy costs and reduce our carbon footprint too. Management of woodland for woodfuel production also directly supports woodland species.

Woodfuel isn't just for houses - modern wood-burning boilers and stoves are being incorporated into buildings of all sizes, including pubs, hotels, schools and glasshouses. Wood can even be used to heat entire communities.

This is a free drop-in event for anybody who wants to know more about woodfuel.

- See different types and makes of boilers and stoves for burning woodchips, pellets or logs.
- Meet manufacturers, installers, and woodfuel suppliers, and get answers to practical questions.
- And on Friday 28 November at 1100 and 1400 there'll be a presentation on:

Biomass heating - choosing the right system for your needs by Gillian Alker from the Forestry Commission. Find out how heating with local wood can benefit the whole Island, from our ecosystem to our economy, and about the different options you can choose.

So come to Newport Football Club and see how woodfuel can work for you.
